

BONALDO

Cross Table, Cross Table Glass

Designer: Alain Gilles

The top of the Cross Table rests only on a thin structure, but it is the wooden base in the shape of a cross that gives the table its solidity and structural force. The design of the modern wood table offers a collective vision in which the role of each element emerges in relation to the others in an appealing contrast between straight lines and soft curves, between masculinity and femininity. The three different and distinct elements that compose it offer the possibility of creating various combinations of finishes and colours, from the most original to the most understated, thereby creating a highly customisable accessory. The top is available in wood, ceramic or marble while a wide range of variants is also available for the finishes of the base, including elegant bronze, lead and pearl gold shades. It is also possible to choose from among three different wood variants for the lower cross. In the Cross Table Glass version, the central base is in transparent glass.
